

We're lucky in Whistler.
We don't have
light pollution.
But that means
we can't see you.

Make sure you're visible to drivers when you walk along the road at night. Bring a flashlight or torch. Wear light-coloured clothing. Use a reflector.

Always walk facing traffic.

whistler.ca/walksafe

Royal Canadian Mounted Police
Service à la clientèle
et à la communauté

PIQUE
COURTESY

All you need for a night out in Whistler:

- › Toque
- › Phone
- › ID
- › Cash
- › Charisma
- › Reflector

As long as you get home afterward, we're happy. Make sure you and your friends are visible to drivers. Wear light-coloured clothing. Bring a flashlight or torch. And maybe that glow stick is more useful than you thought.

whistler.ca/walksafe

Royal Canadian Mounted Police
Service à la clientèle

PIQUE
Whistler

Hey,
Mr. Invincible!
Wake up.
Drivers can't see you.

Make yourself visible while walking along the road at night. You're 10 times more likely to be hit by a vehicle once the sun goes down. Bring a flashlight or torch. Wear light-coloured clothing. Use a reflector and always walk facing traffic.

whistler.ca/walksafe

Royal Canadian Mounted Police
Service à la clientèle

PIQUE
Whistler

Just because you're almost
there
doesn't mean
you're safe yet.

Make sure you are visible to drivers when you get off the bus. Wear light-coloured clothing. Bring a flashlight or torch. Use a reflector and always walk facing traffic.

whistler.ca/walksafe

Royal Canadian Mounted Police
Service à la clientèle
et à la communauté

PIQUE
CLOTHING

We never want to meet your parents.
If we do, that means you won't be around to introduce us.

Every year in BC about 1,800 pedestrians are hit by vehicles at night. Make yourself visible and always walk facing traffic. Don't make your parents fly to Whistler to pack up your things — when you're dead.

whistler.ca/walksafe

Royal Canadian Mounted Police
Service à la clientèle

PIQUE
Whistler

